

Mrs. Clara Norton Reed Victim of Brutal Attack, William A. Orr is Held

Mrs. Reed, in Describing Her Horrible Experience Today, Says Orr Assaulted Her After Administering Ether.

VALIANT FIGHT

Her Courage To Fight Attracted Help and Police Believe Saved Her From Being Murdered.

Mrs. Clara Norton Reed, widely known newspaper writer and member of The Freeman staff, was brutally assaulted and robbed shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. She was removed to the Kingston Hospital where she is under the care of Dr. Frederick Snyder and Dr. John Krom. She is expected to recover from her injuries. At noon today her condition was reported as good as could be expected. William A. Orr, 36, of 325 Clinton avenue, who Mrs. Reed told Dr. Snyder and the police was the man who assaulted her, was found hiding in the cellar of the Reed residence and placed under arrest by Officer Gurnsey Burger.

Later in the morning Officer Burger swore out a warrant charging Orr with first degree burglary and Orr was arraigned before Judge Culliton on the charge. Orr said he would waive examination and was held to await the action of the next grand jury. Judge Culliton said the amount of bail would be fixed by the county judge.

Orr was badly battered when he resisted arrest, and when he entered police court this morning under escort of Officer Burger and Chief of Police J. Allan Wood he held a bandage to his nose. His face had streaks of blood on it.

Assistant District Attorney N. LeVan Haver was in court to represent The People in case Orr demanded a preliminary hearing.

Most Brutal Crime.
The crime for which Orr is held is one of the most brutal in recent years in Kingston. He formerly occupied part of the Reed residence on Crown street, but vacated the apartment several weeks ago, and is now living on Clinton avenue.

Mrs. Reed, who lives in one of the old stone post-revolutionary homes of the city, standing on the corner of John and Crown streets, was able to tell something of her experience this morning. She said that she was awakened to find Orr standing beside her bed, ready apparently to stuff gags in her mouth. She had the presence of mind to grab a telephone beside her bed and shout for police aid before the actual struggle began.

From the story as gathered by the police Orr obtained entrance to the former apartments and then used the skylight to get out onto the roof and from there he managed to obtain entrance through an attic window into the apartments of Mrs. Reed.

Crime Apparently Premeditated.
That he had premeditated the crime was apparent by the fact that he came to the job equipped with an ether mask and a can of ether. He entered Mrs. Reed's bedroom, where she was asleep in bed, and clapped the mask to her nose and mouth and began pouring the ether from the can into the mask.

He administered so much ether that Mrs. Reed became unconscious and he then criminally assaulted her. Mrs. Reed is evidently a woman of strong vitality for she recovered somewhat from the effects of the ether and put up a terrific battle in which the furniture in the bedroom was upset and broken, rugs and other articles were torn and blood was spattered on the floor and on the furnishings.

Orr then grasped Mrs. Reed and pulled her from the bed and started to drag her out into the hall and toward the attic stairs. Chief Wood said that it was evident that Orr realized that Mrs. Reed had recognized him and it was his opinion that Orr planned to carry her to the attic and there to kill her.

Mrs. Reed Fought Fiercely
Mrs. Reed fought valiantly and the noise awakened Robert Gallagher, a clerk in the United Drug Store on Clark street, who rooms in the Reed house. Gallagher jumped out of bed and opening his door stepped out into the hall and saw Orr dragging Mrs. Reed toward the attic stairs.

Gallagher rushed to her aid and struck Orr twice with his fist, forcing Orr to drop Mrs. Reed, and grasp Gallagher. As Orr dropped Mrs. Reed she had retained sufficient presence of mind to stagger to the nearest telephone and attempt to call the police.

Gasped Into Telephone
Owing to the heavy dose of ether she had received, however, she was only able to gasp into the mouthpiece of the telephone. The telephone central receiving that something was wrong promptly relayed the call to police headquarters giving the location of the house and stating that all she could hear was the gasps of someone trying to telephone.

The fight between Gallagher and Orr forced Ralph Noyes of 55 John street, who lives in the house adjoining the Reed residence, Mr. Noyes promptly called police headquarters.

Negro Fined $10 for Following White Girl

Chester Cooley, a negro of 167 Abeel street, was arrested early this morning by Lulu Clearwater, a white girl, and turned over to the police on a charge of disorderly conduct. The girl claimed that the negro was following her and whistling to her as she was walking on Broadway, and she became frightened, and called a policeman.

Judge Culliton imposed a fine of $10 on Cooley, who denied that he was following the girl, and as for whistling he said that it was his habit to whistle while he walked.

Morris Levine Will Be Given Two Weeks to Make Recommended Alterations to His Ann Street Hide Plant.

ROOF LEADERS

Roof Leaders and Cellar Drains May Not Be Hooked Into Sanitary Sewers—Other Matters.

Milk dealers of Kingston must eliminate all unnecessary noises in making early morning deliveries or an ordinance will be adopted requiring all milk to be delivered after 6:30 o'clock in the morning. That was the decision arrived at by the members of the Board of Health on Tuesday evening, after Dr. Harold Clarke, food inspector, had submitted the milk survey that had been taken in the city. The board also decided to give Morris Levine, who is in the hide business on Ann street, two weeks to make alterations to his place of business of legal action would be taken. For the first in many meetings all of the members of the health board were in attendance.

The Milk Survey.

At the May meeting of the health board Dr. Harold Clarke, the food inspector, was instructed to make a milk survey of the city, and ascertain at what hours the general public desired its milk delivered at the homes. The results of this survey was contained in the following report submitted by Dr. Clarke to the board:

"A letter embodying the purport of your resolution was sent to every Milk Dealer supplying this city with the request that they consult their customers as to when they preferred milk to be delivered. Five dealers responded, but since they deliver over 80 per cent of the fluid milk in Kingston, it is believed that the dealer survey is reasonably complete. The employees of the board interviewed individuals making over a hundred interviews. Consultation was had with the Chief of Police and the Corporation Council.

The results are summarized below: Reports from Milk Dealers indicate 95 per cent of their customers desire early deliveries. Milk Dealers are 90 per cent in favor of delivering early.

Results of interviews seemed to indicate preference for early deliveries. (These interviews were mostly with business and professional persons who tried to reply in the abstract rather than personally.) Contrary to popular beliefs, the Chief of Police voiced the opinion that deliveries after six thirty would not cause a traffic problem.

The Corporation Council was consulted as to the legality of regulating deliveries. He believes that the opinion of Public Health is sufficiently broad to cover this subject, but if it were deemed necessary by this Board to take action in this matter, he would be glad to render a full opinion as to whether it would be advisable to act by means of an ordinance or a regulation. Respectfully submitted, HAROLD CLARKE, Food Inspector.

To Write Milk Dealers.
After some discussion of the report the board directed the secretary to write the milk dealers in the city to the effect that unless all unnecessary noises were eliminated in making deliveries that the board would adopt an ordinance requiring all milk to be delivered after 6:30 o'clock each morning. Some of the noises objected to were racking the motor of the trucks, faulty brakes which squeaked when the truck stopped; noisy changing of empty and loaded milk containers, and loud talking.

No Chickens on Broadway.
Mrs. Adele Bregman of lower Broadway appeared before the board and said that she had an opportunity to rent her vacant store on Broadway to two men who desired to open a live poultry and fish market. She said the building was between the undertaking parlors of Jensen & Deagan and Pariah's garage. The building is a one-story building and she said she had erected it seven years ago, but had not had an opportunity to lease it until now. The two men who wanted to lease the building had opened a live poultry market farther on down Broadway, but the business men had objected to live poultry being kept in the downtown business section and the store had been closed.

Under the provisions of the sanitary code no live chickens may be kept within 25 feet of any occupied building, and for that reason it was impossible for the board to grant permission for the Bregman property to be used for a live poultry market, and the secretary was instructed to write Mrs. Bregman to that effect.

Public Need Education.
The question of unnecessary noises again came up before the board when it was stated that there was more blowing of locomotive whistles since the anti-noise ordinance was adopted than before adoption of the ordinance. Mayor McEneaney said he would take the matter up with the police board and that the police would be instructed to stop excessive drivers who violate the ordinance.

Mayor McEneaney, who presided at the meeting, said that the board was in attendance.

New York Leaders Say Landon Bloc Holds, Balloting on Thursday

Cleveland, June 10 (AP).—New York's 90 uninstructed delegates swung into activities of the Republican convention's second day with some of their leaders confident a caucus would show the powerful bloc "almost unanimous" for Governor Landon of Kansas.

J. Russell Sprague, Nassau county chairman and leader of the state bloc, set the caucus for late in the day (4 p. m., E. S. T.) despite persistent attempts of some party leaders to cause a second deferment until just before the balloting begins tomorrow. The caucus originally was scheduled for Monday night.

"The general opinion is such that I don't think the caucus should be further delayed," Sprague said after the delegates besieged his headquarters with protests. While the New Yorkers were arguing over the caucus, John D. M. Hamilton, Landon campaign manager, said talks with several Empire State leaders assured him at least 42 votes would be cast for the Kansas executive on the first ballot.

Chairman Eaton predicted "a much greater number," however, although refusing to state exactly how many votes he expected. Some leaders have said at least 70 New York votes would be cast for Landon, and 36 delegates already have declared for him.

Among the leaders with whom Landon's manager said he talked were Kings County Leader Robert R. Crews, and Charles H. Griffiths of New Rochelle, delegate-at-large, both of whom have declared for the Kansas executive.

The New York delegation was wide open still on a choice for vice president, with Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, Rep. Martin of Massachusetts and Senator Frederic Steiwer of Oregon most frequently mentioned.

Sharp differences of opinion prevailed over a proposed plank in the party platform declaring for a constitutional amendment to permit states to enact minimum wage legislation.

Hoover Is Cheered Upon Arrival Today At G. O. P. Convention

Cleveland, June 10 (AP).—Smiling broadly, former President Herbert Hoover came to town today to receive rousing cheers from hundreds of delegates to the Republican National Convention.

Before he stepped off the train amid a wildly applauding throng which included several former cabinet members, California delegates were told his address prepared for delivery to the convention tonight contained not a word "faintly suggesting self-seeking."

Chester Rowell, chairman of the big block of 44 from Hoover's state, said the speech will not be "any William Jennings Bryan cross of gold restatement." He referred to Bryan's stampede of the 1926 Democratic convention with his noted speech.

Rowell termed the address, which he had read, "the most devastating indictment of the New Deal ever written."

Mr. Hoover stepped off a train from Chicago at 9:55 a. m. (EST). In front of the station he was presented with a badge of admission to the national convention by Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee.

"I herewith present you with your official badge and ribbon of admission to the convention," Fletcher said. "I am proud and happy to attend this convention," Hoover replied.

The throng followed Hoover into the lobby of his nearby Hotel and another prolonged cheer went up.

Convention to Nominate Leader of New Crusade Against New Deal Idiocy

Permanent Chairman, Lashing Out at "Grotesque Failure of New Deal," Says Constitution Was "Debauched" by Greed.

AMERICA'S PRAYER
Calls Roosevelt Policy Arrogant Individualism, Pledges Party to Maximum of Social Cooperation.

Convention Hall, Cleveland, June 10 (AP).—Taking the permanent chairmanship, Representative Bertrand Snell of New York appealed to the Republican convention today to slink its differences and unite "to restore the government to the people."

The party is not contending against the Democratic party as such, he told the thousands in the auditorium, but "it offers to lead America against an unconstitutional dictatorship—yes, the arrogant individualism of Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Mentioning no candidate for the presidential nomination, he predicted victory in November and said "we shall need in executive positions the services of constitutional Democrats and Republicans alike."

In a burning prelude to the address tonight by former President Herbert Hoover, the Republican leader of the House imputed betrayal of platform pledges to the New Deal. He charged "reckless squandering," retardation of recovery and violation of constitutional liberties under "this demoralizing reign of incompetence."

America's Prayer
"I hear today America's earnest prayer of deliverance," he said. Republicanism he praised as a "great heritage—a political force which personifies the deeply rooted American instinct for law and order, for true social security and the square deal, for a practical and workable system of government."

Snell pledged the party to "the maximum of social cooperation consistent with the faithful preservation of the just liberties of all the people."

"We will not prove unworthy," he pledged. "In our words and in our actions, the sons and daughters of America will find an answer to their hope. We shall speak to their hearts and consciences; and we shall win."

With platform contention rife, the veteran of many such controversies in Congress cautioned against "meaningless political phrases and empty promises."

Do that, he said, and the voters "will abandon us to defeat. They call on us to turn our backs on the past and to lead them into the future."

"Grotesque Failure"
He labeled the New Deal a "grotesque failure," and contended American institutions had been debauched by "greedy partisanship" and ideals warped by "alien political philosophies."

Snell recalled that at Chicago in 1932—where he presided over the convention that renominated Hoover—he had warned the republic was never safe unless Republicans were "on guard."

"And oh, how the last four years have driven that truth home to a dismayed people," he went on. "In these four years every home has felt the heavy burden of the New Deal's planned extravagance."

"Every cent of additional taxes serves but to increase the reckless power of the New Deal spoilers and wasters."

"Every dollar added to our national debt is a new burden upon the back of youth. Already the New Deal has cost us the progress and prosperity of a generation. Let us here begin our march to sanity and to safety."

Other Charges
Some of his other arguments against the New Deal were:

"We have a bewildering jargon of rediprocal tariff treaties recklessly throwing open the great American market."

"We see foreign trade rushing on the 'wallow'."

NRA and "the bob-tailed Blue Eagle" meant suspension of all anti-trust statutes.

AAA was "conceived as a policy of shameful destruction."

A "treasury-financed political machine" has been set up.

Three years have demonstrated, Snell insisted, that America "cannot squander her way back to a sound and sustained prosperity. There must be a return to sanity in fiscal management. That is the great decision the electorate will make next November."

FINGERPRINT ALL SEEKING U. S. JOBS

Civil Service Commission Is Making Close Check.

Washington.—Fingerprints of more than 10,000 persons seeking government employment have been forwarded to the federal bureau of investigation by federal and local authorities to determine if they had previous criminal records.

A check through federal files revealed that 107 of 4,908 fingerprint cards received from the United States civil service commission were of applicants who had served penitentiary terms and sought government jobs under assumed names.

In one case, an applicant's fingerprints were received from the civil service commission when he was seeking an appointment as a postal clerk in 1929. These prints were later identified as those of an individual who was arrested in St. Louis in 1935 on a charge of violating the postal laws.

Convicted for Robbery.
In another case, federal agents received fingerprint impressions of a person entering the California state prison on November 30, 1935, sentenced to serve five years to life for robbery. The impressions were identical to those of a person applying for the Post Office department in 1929.

The police department of Pasadena, Calif., submitted the fingerprint card of a person seeking a pistol permit. A check of the files of the identification division of the bureau revealed that he had been arrested in 1926 on a charge of larceny, later arrested and charged with desertion in St. Paul, Minn., for which he received a suspended sentence of five years.

When his fingerprints were received from Pasadena, he was wanted at St. Paul as a parole violator. Federal officials notified the St. Paul authorities.

Check on New Employees.
Fingerprint cards of 648 applicants, seeking positions as hotel clerks, waitresses, caddies and others, were forwarded to the bureau from Miami.

A search through the files showed 53 of this number had previous criminal records for such offenses as violation of the prohibition and narcotic acts, desertion from the armed forces, defrauding hotelkeepers, receiving stolen goods, larceny, assault and highway robbery.

The fingerprint card of one applicant, seeking a position as checker, was found to be identical with an individual who had served a sentence at the United States industrial reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, for motor theft.

A guest of a Miami Beach hotel was robbed of $140 in cash, and immediately notified authorities. Suspicion pointed to an employee who had left the hotel that day.

He had been fingerprinted and photographed when he applied for the position. Police exhibited his photograph and fingerprints at railroad stations, bus lines and other points of departure. He was apprehended the same day.

Papaya Seen as Rival of Breakfast Grapefruit

San Francisco.—Grapefruit eventually may be replaced as the favorite American breakfast fruit dish by the Hawaiian papaya, if experiments now being conducted on the islands for the protection of the latter prove successful.

Up to the present the greatest enemy of the papaya has been the fruit fly. Now the United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with Hawaiian authorities, is conducting an intensive campaign along three fronts to preserve the delicious fruit for exportation.

The experiments include the introduction of parasitic insects to fight the fly; treating the fruit to destroy fly larvae before they can do damage; and processing of fruit for shipment in other than the fresh state.

The papaya is the favorite breakfast fruit dish of the island, and growers are confident that if it can be preserved for exportation it will become exceedingly popular in the United States.

Joseph Bogara Pleads Guilty to Arson in County Court Tuesday

Joseph Bogara, alias Joseph Bogaro, of Nyack charged with arson, for the burning of his barn at Lake Katrine on January 29, last, entered a plea of guilty to arson, third degree, in county court Tuesday afternoon. Bogara was represented by Chris J. Flanagan. Imposition of sentence was postponed until 2 o'clock on January 25 and in the meantime bail was reduced from $5,000 to $2,500 cash.

A stipulation was also entered into and placed on the record to the effect that the $2,500 cash which was released through the reduction of the bail bond be paid to three insurance companies which paid losses at the time of the fire. The three companies were compelled to pay the loss, even though arson was suspected, because of the fact that the property was mortgaged and the mortgages were entitled to payment.

The cash released by the reduction of bail will be paid to reimburse the insurance companies. Bogara on his arrest and indictment provided himself the necessary $5,000 cash bail. Judge Joseph M. Fowler appeared in behalf of the insurance companies.

On the night of January 29, last, a barn on the former Weyant farm on the Neighborhood road was destroyed by fire and seven cows were burned to death. At first the fire was supposed to have been of accidental origin but when State Trooper Reilly arrived at the scene he became suspicious and called the sheriff.

Sheriff Molyneux and Deputy Charles McCullough responded and an investigation was commenced. On the farm was an aged man who was working the farm. He later told the officers that Bogara had been at the place and had set fire to the building but the farmer said he had been reluctant to tell the officials because of fear that he might be harmed. It was learned that shortly after 2 o'clock a Chevrolet car had been parked near the barn and had been so close to the fire that it was fired. Passing people believing the car was being saved from the building assisted in showing the car out of the snowdrifts and the car departed for Kingston. This led the officials to believe that Bogara was en route home and they notified the New City police and Troopers.

The farmer on the place later told the officials that Bogara had fired the building and had come to the farm in a car and after firing the building had attempted to drive off and had become stuck in the snow so close to the barn that the car was burned. Police were asked to keep a watch for the car and later at Nyack Bogara was picked up. He had taken a car from a second hand dealer in Nyack for a demonstration and had driven to Lake Katrine and after the fire started he drove back to Nyack. Police brought him to Ulster county and he was charged with the arson.

So quickly had the flames spread after the barn had been soaked with kerosene that Bogara himself was badly burned and after he was brought to jail he was attended by a physician for burns for some time. His clothing and even money which he had in his pocket was kerosene soaked when he was arrested.

Mental Examination
In the cases of Frank Ropinski and Percy Lasher the court granted an application made by District Attorney Cleon B. Murray for a mental examination of Ropinski and the Lasher case was set down for Friday at 10 o'clock. The Lasher case will be disposed of by a plea. Clyde F. Gardner by Mr. Moseman, appears for Lasher.

Gerald Sauers, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of failure to support his children, was arraigned and Mr. Murray said that after a conference with Mrs. Sauers it had been agreed that if Sauers paid $6 a week toward the support of his two children that it would be satisfactory. The money will be paid through Mrs. Doremus, county agent. Mr. Murray stated that Sauers was unable to put up bail but that he had a job and had agreed to make the payments and he suggested that the court parole the defendant so long as payments were made on time. This was done and Judge Traver warned the defendants that if the payments stopped a bench warrant would be issued and Sauers put in jail.

Larceny Charge
Mr. Murray moved the trial of the indictment against James Woody and Wilfred Morin, a larceny charge growing out of the theft of an automobile. Daniel Hoffman, who was assigned to the defendant Woody, asked that he be given additional time to prepare for trial and stated that an important witness had not been located. He stated that he had been assigned to the case but a few days ago and he asked the case go over. He said he would be engaged in court in Albany Wednesday and Thursday. He had a hearing scheduled in the Woodstock-Saugerties highway condemnation commission matter. Judge Traver said he would adjourn the matter until Friday morning and at that time he would expect the counsel to be present ready for trial of the case. If the commission did not finish its hearing Thursday he said the commission would have to be adjourned. Louis Bruhn, who appears for Morin said he would be ready Friday.

An extra panel of jurors was drawn to be present at 10 o'clock on Friday, June 12. Jurors present were excused until that time.

Black Legionnaires Ready to Burn Homes

Detroit, June 10 (AP)—The Black Legion had an "intelligence squad" under orders to burn the homes of men they suspected of being Communist leaders in the Detroit area, Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea said today after a night of intensive questioning of four men held here.

McCrea said the four admitted setting fire to the home of William F. Mollenbauer in Oakland county in August, 1934, and that other cases of incendiary are under scrutiny. The men held are Frank Rice and Clarence Frye, automobile factory employees; Albert Swanson, a meter reader for the Detroit City Gas Co., and Roy Hepner, painter and decorator.

The four were confronted by Dayton Dean, the Black Legion "trigger man" in the slaying of Charles A. Poole. Dean accused Hepner of directing a Legion meeting at which Dean was given 15 lashes for lax attendance.

The Black Legion "intelligence squad" was under orders to carry a loaded revolver, a can of naphtha and a quantity of rags in the cars at all times so they could be ready to carry out at once orders to burn homes of Communist leaders, the four told the prosecutor.

Another Black Legion squad, was the "shock troops," McCrea said, who were organized to see that the members did not waver in their attendance. The special squads received their orders in code, either by note or telegram.

The return to work of syndicalist waiters, out for a month, represented an important victory for both the government and the socialists who have opposed syndicalist strikes. Shopkeepers, who had threatened to close up throughout Madrid, reopened the threat under warnings they would face prosecution by the government. There were scattered disorders as government and business combined in an attempt to halt the disorders.

Two-Thirds of Crime Program Is Gained By Governor Lehman

Albany, N. Y., June 10 (AP).—Re-elected Governor Lehman as he sought relaxation today at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., was the accomplishment of nearly two-thirds of the 60-point anti-crime program he outlined to the Legislature last winter.

Before departing for his vacation, the governor signed eight crime control laws, bringing to 39 the number enacted. In his approval message, he said he had "no doubt that within a short time" the bills which failed to pass this year also "will be enacted into law."

"The 39 bills enacted," he declared, "undoubtedly constitute the broadest program of reform in the machinery for the enforcement of the criminal law that has been adopted in this or any other state."

The governor said, although he was gratified at the progress that has been made, "I none the less, greatly regret that the Legislature, especially the Assembly, for reasons best known to itself, has refused to adopt certain other fundamental reforms and improvements." He listed these as:

- Creation of a bureau of crime prevention.
- Establishment of county police forces.
- Creation of a system of police training.
- Establishment of a state department of justice.

Authorizing a trial judge to review and comment on the evidence. Similarly authorizing him to comment on the failure of a defendant to take the witness stand.

Among the new laws signed are those that will:

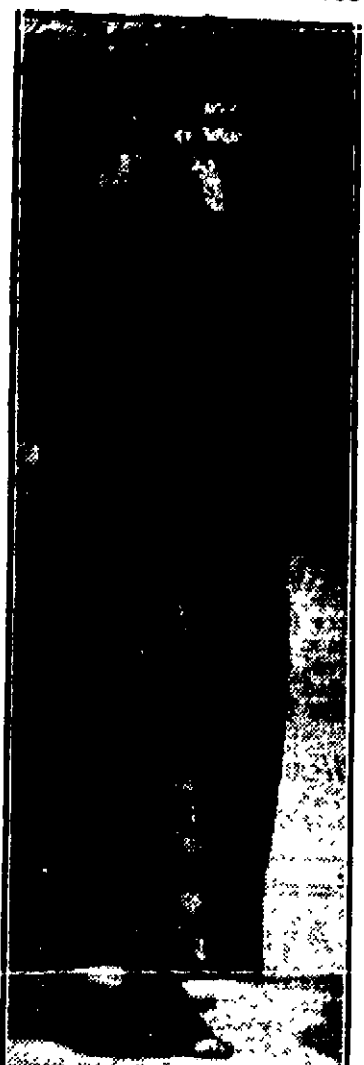

- Make permanent the so-called "public enemy" law.
- Limit exemptions for jury duty.
- Make more rigorous the requirements for bail bondsmen.
- Provide a uniform criminal extradition act.

Provide for the arrest and custody by New York officials of fugitives "closely pursued" by authorities of other states.

The governor also signed three laws intended to protect workmen from the danger of silicosis or dust disease.

History of Colonel Lewis DuBois Given by Dr. J. Wilson Poucher

At the literary meeting and luncheon of the Ulster County Historical Society held at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Saturday last, Dr. J. Wilson Poucher read the following paper on Colonel Lewis DuBois:

Colonel Lewis DuBois was born in Poughkeepsie, September 3, 1744. He was the son of Elias DuBois, who had been a captain in the French and Indian wars and who had died at Albany on the expedition to Crown Point, on July 24, 1755. His mother was Susanna Van Der Burgh, daughter of Henry Van Der Burgh and sister of Colonel James Van Der Burgh of the Dutchess County Militia. He was of the fifth generation from Louis DuBois, the patentee of New Paltz.

1. Louis DuBois, born October 21, 1727, in France; died 1806 in Kingston; married Catharine Blaujean, born about 1687, died December 10, 1775.

Matthew, son of Louis, born January 17, 1679, at New Paltz; died 1748 at Poughkeepsie; married Sarah Van Keuren, January 17, 1697, at Kingston.

3. Louis, son of Matthew, baptized July 18, 1697, at Kingston; married Jannetje Van Vleet, April 16, 1718, at Kingston; and had removed to Poughkeepsie in 1738 when his name appears on the tax list.

4. Elias, son of Louis, baptized April 8, 1722, at Kingston; married Susanna Van Der Burgh, at Poughkeepsie. They had three sons and two daughters. Lewis was born September 3, 1744.

Some time in 1730 Matthew had come to Dutchess county and had purchased some thirteen hundred acres of land along the west side of the Wappingers Creek. (1) He was accompanied, or followed within a short time, by several of his sons and daughters. Later records show that this farm was owned by his great-grandson, Colonel Lewis DuBois, from 1773 to 1791. (2)

In 1762, "Lewis DuBois, aged 18, born in Dutchess County, captain, stature 5 ft. 7 in., joined Captain Isaac Ter Bush's company, Dutchess County Militia. (3). From this time he was active in the village community. He owned a large tract of land along the post road, now Market Street, Poughkeepsie, and from 1768 to 1773 had a tavern on the present site of the Bardavon Theatre in Poughkeepsie, which he sold to Thomas Poole in 1773.

In 1774 he was one of the subscribers to Christ Church, giving "the land to set the church on" and, in 1766, he had given $10 toward the purchase of a glebe. (4). About this time he built the brick and stone house on his farm near the Wappingers Creek, which is now the residence of the Hon. A. B. Gray. (5) Then came the exciting period leading to the War of the Revolution when every man must decide where he stood and what his course of action would be. Lewis DuBois was one of the first signers of the Association Pledge. In which the signers bound themselves to assist and defend the liberties of the colonies.

At the first meeting of the New York Convention, or Provincial Congress, which convened May 23, 1775, four regiments were ordered raised at once, not to exceed 3,000 men. These enlistments were to expire December 31, 1775. At the same time Colonel Philip Schuyler was made a major general, Captain Richard Montgomery was made brigadier general and James Clinton, an older brother of George Clinton who was later governor of New York, was named colonel of the 3rd regiment.

On June 28, 1775, Lewis DuBois was commissioned captain and ordered to raise a company for this regiment "for the defense of American liberty." This regiment was composed of ten companies, two from Dutchess County, two from Ulster County, two from Orange County, one from Orange-Town (in what is now Rockland County) and three from Suffolk County, Long Island. Each company was to consist of 72 enlisted men. Colonel Clinton reported:

Little Britain, July 21, 1775. To the Committee of Military Affairs: I have just now received your letter dated July 17th. I can only acquaint you, that I have mustered Captain Nicholson's company and Captain Denton's. Nicholson's is complete. Denton wants but four men. Capt. Brown and Hasbrouck at Kingston have made but small progress as they have but lately begun to enlist but I make no doubt they will soon get their men. I have seen Capt. Billings at Poughkeepsie, who says his company is complete and I suppose, Capt. DuBois is by this time. I ordered him to apply to Capt. Swartwout to muster the last two companies, as he was appointed for that purpose.

I have had no account from Capt. Johnston of Orange-Town nor the three Captains on Long Island. (7) Captain DuBois's company was ready July 21, 1775, by Captain Jacobus Swartwout, Muster-master. (8) This regiment at once became a part of General Montgomery's army for the invasion of Canada and was highly lauded by Colonel Clinton.

The story of this regiment on its march to join General Montgomery's army is very fully described in the Journal of Major Henry Livingston, who was also a Poughkeepsie man. They joined General Montgomery at the north end of Lake Champlain, near the enemy's forts. Here, on October 11, at a council of war, it was decided to erect a battery on the east side of the lake opposite the forts. Major Livingston writes: "The General ordered Col. Clinton and 200 of his men to go upon this business."

Billings and Denton picked up the gun with us. The company was too severe for any of the enemy's men. At night Capt. DuBois with a party of 40 men cut off all the Dutch and French between our Battery & the water edge & made the Embarras somewhat narrower. Again, on October 18, when ordered on another undertaking, he said: "Col. Clinton gave me leave to choose any 2 Companies to accompany me that I could confide in most out of his Regiment & I pitched on those of Capt. Nicholson & DuBois, all of us together made 108 men." On November 17, Major Livingston, owing to illness, was obliged to leave the regiment and make his way slowly homeward. General Montgomery promoted Capt. Lewis DuBois to fill the vacant place on November 25.

As this regiment had only been enlisted for six months' service, the term of enlistment expired in mid-winter, but the men were obliged to re-enlist, probably whether they wished to or not. Many of them, including their gallant commander, General Montgomery, never returned home. Our major's services in Canada must have been very excellent for on July 25, 1775, Major Lewis DuBois "in Canada service" was commissioned colonel by the Continental Congress, although there was some opposition in the New York Provincial Congress, but because it was done over their heads. (9) He was ordered to raise a regiment for three years' service, or duration of the war.

Some of the trials and difficulties he overcame in recruiting a complete regiment in so short a time as he wished, may be explained in his own words in his letter to General Washington.

Poughkeepsie, Aug. 5, 1776.

May it please your Excellency—We are as industrious as possible Recruiting men for my Regiment but we find it very difficult. Inlisting men now as the one fourth part of the Militia is to turn out and such large Bounties given for a bout 4 or 5 months though we earn as good speed as I could Expect. I would have sent a Return of the men already enlisted by my Brother only I have been very unwell for some time and am now getting better and as soon as I am able to ride I intend going down to New York when I shall bring Return of them with me.

We are purchasing Arms for those we enlist and would be glad to know where to send them as fast as we raise them. As my Regiment is to be enlisted [for] during the war. Perhaps your Excellency may allow me to raise men out of the Militia if so I think I could fill my Regt. and go into immediate Service which would be very agreeable to me. I would be glad if your Excellency would send me by my Brother, the Bearer, some Money for Recruiting as without that we can do but little.

I am your Excellency's Most Obedt. & Humil. servant, LEWIS DUBOIS Col. (10) To Colo. Lewis DuBois, Poughkeepsie Head Quarters New York

August 9th, 1776

Sir, Your letter of the 5th by your Brother is received, by him I forward you $500 Dollars. Would have you order your Regiment to march for this place, as fast as an Officer's party are enlisted. You will make a return to me immediately of the number of men already embodied and continue to make your returns, by which you may call for money as wanted. I conceive that taking men from the 4 or 5 months' Militia, will not answer our present necessity, as it will not add to the number in Service; but of the Militia, which is only ordered in for a few days or weeks, you have an undoubted right to take such as have a mind to enlist with you. Previously to your men arriving in this place, you will order a field Officer here, to take charge of them, as they come in.

I am Sir, Yours &c. G. WASHINGTON. (11)

Colonel DuBois's brother mentioned in these letters was Henry DuBois, who became adjutant and captain in this regiment and was of great assistance in its recruiting and outfitting. This regiment became the Fifth New York Continental Line and was a part of the force sent to the defense of the Highlands. Colonel DuBois was at Fort Montgomery as early as January 18, 1777. He was appointed Martial "for the trial of all such persons as should come before them charged with levying war against the United States of New York, &c." Many individuals were tried by this court for various offenses. (12)

Early in September he commanded the right wing of the force that made an expedition to Kingsbridge. (13) In October, when the British came up the river in great force with fleet and army, Colonel DuBois's regiment comprised an important part of the garrison at Fort Montgomery and in the assault and capture of the fort on October 6, the regiment was badly cut up and many of the men and officers killed or captured. (14)

Colonel DuBois was at first supposed to have been among those taken prisoner, but he escaped. General Putnam, in his report on October 5 to General Washington, says: "Col. DuBois day collected near 200 of his men, that got off after the enemy were in the fort." Colonel DuBois had a wound in his neck, made by a bayonet. General James Clinton was another officer who escaped by climbing down a steep embankment after being wounded by a bayonet thrust in his thigh.

General George Clinton, the newly appointed Governor of New York, and Chief in Command at Fort Mifflin, who himself escaped from the fort in the darkness and crossed the river in a small boat, conscious that there would doubtless be the usual criticism on such a catastrophe, wrote in a letter to General Washington, three days after the battle:

New Windsor, 3 October, 1777. I have only to add, that the great losses are sustained, but generally, public measures have been so conducted, that the consequences to those who are immediately concerned, is in the present instance, less than it would be, if we had far as relates to Fort Montgomery and its dependencies, it may fall on me alone; for I should be guilty of the greatest injustice, were I not to declare, that the officers and men united with the greatest spirit and bravery. (15)

After collecting the remnant of his regiment, about two hundred officers and men, he joined General George Clinton's force at New Windsor. With this pitiful force of about one thousand men, the remnant of Colonel DuBois's and Colonel Webb's regiments, together with a few of Lamb's artillery, together with a few of militia, without arms or military supplies or even proper clothing, everything having been lost at the capture of the fort, they marched toward Kingston in an effort to help to see the city in flames, powerless to give aid. While on this march, Daniel Taylor, a British spy, captured by Sir Henry Clinton, was captured by a spy of Colonel DuBois's men wearing British uniforms. He was tried by court martial, convicted and was said to have been hanged at Hurley.

The following arrangement of Colonel DuBois's regiment is among General Washington's papers and shows the number and names of officers taken prisoner at the capture of Fort Montgomery:

Paymaster, Michael Conolly. Adjutant, Henry Dodge. Quartermaster, Daniel Birdsall. Surgeon, Samuel Cooke. Mate, Ebenezer Hutchinson. Lewis DuBois, Colo. (16) Colonel DuBois spent the winter at Fishkill recruiting and refitting the depleted ranks of his regiment. Here is an order from General Clinton:

Sr. Deliver to Colonel Lewis DuBois or his Order Two Pieces of Onabrigs for the use of his Regt. taking a Rec't & charging the same to the Regt. Given at Poughkeepsie this 10th June, 1778.

This Onabrigs is to serve for Pockets, Lining, &c., for cloathing making for the Regt. Mr. John Henry, Commiss'y, &c. (17)

During the summer the regiment was at New Windsor and vicinity protecting the frontier against marauding parties. In May 1779, he joined General Clinton's Campaign against the Sullivan-Clinton campaign against the Indians and Tories through central New York. (18)

On June 15, 1779, Colonel DuBois wrote from Johnston, Tryon county, to the Board of Commissioners for Conspiracies at Albany that he was sending twenty-one Tory prisoners to them to be confined and tried. (19)

He commanded the right wing of General Sullivan's army and was highly commended for his action in the battle of Newton and the subsequent pursuit of the enemy (20). Governor Clinton, in a letter from Poughkeepsie to his brother, General James Clinton, says: "Your family and Colo. DuBois's are well." (21)

During 1779 there was considerable argument about seniority of rank between Colonels Van Cortlandt, Gansevoort and DuBois, and each had sent a memorial to Congress. On May 22, General Washington, in a letter to General James Clinton, writes: "The affair between Col. Cortlandt and Gansevoort and DuBois has been sent by Congress to me. It is probable they will send a copy of Col. DuBois's memorial. In the meantime, I flatter myself the Gentlemen from a spirit of accommodation and their zeal for the Service, will not suffer it to be impeded in any instance by their claims." (22)

On June 12, he writes General Clinton again: "The Honorable the Congress have decided the affair of rank between Colonels Van Cortlandt, Gansevoort and DuBois upon their memorials, against Col. DuBois." (23) Therefore, when the five regiments were consolidated, Colonel Gansevoort became colonel of the 1st and Colonel Van Cortlandt of the 2nd, Colonel DuBois of the 3rd. He was, however, commissioned July 1, 1780, to command a regiment of militia and sent to the western front. The army had disbanded until, at the time the five regiments of the New York Line were consolidated into two, there were scarcely eight hundred men left. It was very difficult to get the militia together to protect the frontiers. These regiments of militia were volunteers sent ly from the ranks of the militia who were offered large bounties, $20.00 to $300.00 in addition to the usual bounty. With this regiment he took a very active part during 1780 and 1781 in clearing up the western frontiers, and especially the Mohawk Valley, of the Tories and Indians, under Sir John Johnson, Butler and Brandt. (24)

To show the kind of vigorous officer our colonel was in these last days of the war, I am copying one of his letters written while in pursuit of Sir John Johnson's men.

Fort Harkerman 1 o'clock [October 1, 1780].

Dr Sir: I am here, pursued the Enemy so close that I prevented them from Burning or Doing the Least Damage to the Inhabitants. The Enemy is not above four miles in front of us; my men much fatigued, without Provisions. I must here make a halt, until I can get some provisions to Refresh them. The Enemy is much fatigued, they travelled almost all night, without any Refreshment; they must make a halt.

This moment, I Rec'd Information that the Enemy is at a place call'd Shoemaker's Land, about four miles from here; Genl. Ransler this moment appears in Sight with the Militia.

The Enemy are Bending their course for Buck Island. I am your Lewis DuBois.

P. S. My men have agreed to march without eating. I expect to catch them in 3 ours thime. His Excellency Governor Clinton. (25)

They pressed on to Shoemakers but did not again succeed in bringing Sir John into a pitched battle, although Butler and his Indians and hands of Tories continued active in small ways, keeping up a state of war along the frontiers for more than a year after peace had been practically established throughout the rest of the country.

Colonel DuBois was second in command to General Robert Van Rensselaer. He had an important part in the Court of Inquiry that operated that officer from the charges of cowardice and inefficiency. General James Swartwout was president of this court. (26)

After the war Colonel DuBois returned to his home at Poughkeepsie. A map of 1790 shows "Col. DuBois" living on the site of the present Courier Building at 25 Market street, Poughkeepsie.

The minutes of the meetings of Solomon's Lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., held in Poughkeepsie, contain the following items:

At a meeting held June 12, 1771, "at the house of Lewis DuBois, according to Order of the Lodge at last meeting Lewis DuBois was entered an apprentice and member of this Lodge."

At a meeting held January 2, 1782, among officers chosen was "Lewis DuBois, Master." In a list of those present and among the visitors at a meeting held December 27, 1782, is the name of Bro. George Washington, Commander-in-Chief. (27)

As the house of Lewis DuBois was for many years the usual meeting place for this lodge, it is more than likely that the reception of General Washington, just cited, was held at his house on Market street. Colonel DuBois was referred to at various times as "Inkeeper", "Merchant" and "Farmer."

On April 17, 1787, he was appointed Brigadier-General of Militia in Dutchess county. (28) He served until June 13, 1793, when he was succeeded by David Van Ness, inasmuch as he had "removed to a distant part of the state." (29) He was appointed high sheriff of Dutchess county on March 21, 1781, and served until March 9, 1785. (30) He represented Dutchess county in the State Assembly in the ninth session of the legislature January 12 to March 5, 1786, and also in the 10th session at New York, January 12 to April 21, 1787. (31) He was a supervisor at Poughkeepsie in 1786, 1787, 1788, and 1789.

In 1791 or 1792 Colonel DuBois seems to have gone into financial difficulties, as his farm and other real estate were sold under mortgage foreclosure, and some time in 1792, or prior to June, 1793, he removed to Maryland, Montgomery county. He represented Montgomery county in the 19th session of the legislature from January 6, to April 11, 1796. (32) Just how long he remained away from Poughkeepsie is not quite clear, but on March 28, 1805, he was again living there when a special act of the legislature of the state of New York was passed, known as Act LIII, Laws of 1805.—An Act for the Relief of Lewis DuBois.

Be it resolved by the people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, that it shall be lawful for the commission of the land office, and they are hereby required to grant to Lewis DuBois, a Colonel in the Line of the late Revolutionary War, and his heirs and assigns forever, by letters patent, the number of acres of land which have been granted to officers of the same grade in Western District in a tract set apart for the Line of the State in the Army of the United States.

On December 31, 1764, a license was granted to Lewis DuBois to marry Alida, daughter of Johannes Van Kleeck. They had two sons, Elias L. baptized Mar. 4, 1766, and Johannes, baptized Mar. 16, 1769. His wife, Alida, died some time after 1782, probably during their residence in Montgomery county, where after married Catharine Van de Roost who survived him. She was mentioned in the administration of his estate. The Country Journal, published Mar. 16, 1787, in Poughkeepsie, says:

On Thursday last was married, Mr. W. H. Van Benschoten, in his book on the Van Benschoten family, says: "On May 10, 1747, Jacobus, son of Colonel DuBois, married Miss Van Benschoten, daughter of General Van Benschoten, also of this county."

Mr. W. H. Van Benschoten, in his book on the Van Benschoten family, says: "On May 10, 1747, Jacobus, son of Colonel DuBois, married Miss Van Benschoten, daughter of General Van Benschoten, also of this county."

Major DuBois with his 4 companies from Newburgh, along the river as you formerly ordered them. (30)

I can find no record to show that Major Lewis DuBois of Marlborough, during his lifetime, ever used the word "Colonel" with his signature or his correspondence.

The following correspondence from the Public Papers of George Clinton conclusively shows that he was a major in the fall of 1777.

Newburgh-November 22, 1777. Sir I understand by Capt. Case that all my Neighbors are Discharged from the Guard house on condition lished at Poughkeepsie on March 10, 1824, appears the following obituary: Died—in this village, on Thursday last, General Lewis DuBois, in the 82nd year of his age. He was one of the early asserters and defenders of American liberty and independence. He entered the American army in 1775 as a captain, and accompanied General Montgomery in his expedition to Canada. He was with him in the assault on Quebec, and near that gallant officer when he fell. He was also one of the defenders of Fort Montgomery, when that fortress was assaulted and stormed by the British, in the fall of the year 1777. He for some time sustained the rank of Major in the army, and when the army was disbanded, he was subsequently sustained the rank of General in the militia of this state, and the office of sheriff of this county. Though carried safely through the perils of war, he has at last fallen under the stroke of death, and been gathered to his fathers in a good old age.

And the Poughkeepsie Journal of the same date printed the following: Died—in this village on Thursday the 4th instant, General Lewis DuBois at the advanced age of 80 years. This gentleman took up arms in the commencement of the revolution at the head of a company, and saw its accomplishment in command of a brigade. Thus, one after the other, the heroes who breathed the spirit of that eventful period, recede from our view, but leave a train of radiance behind them which succeeding generations will delight to point to with gratitude and rapture.

For several years I have been writing articles about Dutchess county men of the Revolutionary period. About a year ago I decided to write up the records of our brothers, Lewis DuBois and his younger brother, Henry. Captain Henry's record was easy, because much of it is on record of the Society of the Cincinnati, of which he became an original member at the close of the Revolution in 1783.

When I began to look for the record of Lewis DuBois I found it rather complicated because there were two officers of that name serving at the same time, Lewis DuBois of Poughkeepsie and Lewis DuBois of Marlborough. I soon found to my satisfaction that historians had confounded the services of the two Lewis DuBoises. As nearly as I can determine the confusion began with Mr. E. M. Ruttenber, a journalist and historian of Newburgh, who, in an article written for the Orange County Historical Society, said that Captain Lewis DuBois of Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck's regiment, the Fourth Ulster County Militia, was sent to Poughkeepsie to recruit a company for Col. James Clinton's regiment for the invasion of Canada, early in June, 1775. As the militia regiments were organized by an act of the Provincial Congress, passed August 22, 1775, there was in June, 1775, no such regiment in fact. Colonel Hasbrouck's regiment was organized in September and on September 20, 1775, Lewis DuBois of New Marlboro Precinct was commissioned Captain (33) and on October 25, was made a Major. (34) By that time Captain Lewis DuBois, well on his way into Canada.

Again, when Major DuBois, after his return from Canada, was commissioned Colonel by the Continental Congress, Mr. Ruttenber says: "Major Lewis DuBois of Col. Hasbrouck's Regiment." (35) But the Congress had specifically stated the designation as "a Major in Canada service." (36) The records in Ruttenber's time were not so easy to consult as they are now and he knew of only one Major Lewis DuBois.

Mr. Ruttenber's statements have been generally accepted by historical writers. Mr. Robert E. Deyo wrote a paper, printed in the records of the National Temple Hill Association, entitled Ruttenber, and Deyo, in Ferris's History of New Paltz, New York, and its Old Families. Mr. LeFevre says: "At the same time that Lewis DuBois was in Canada with Montgomery, he was second Major in Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck's militia regiment." (37) This was because he had to account for an officer named Lewis DuBois in two places at the same time.

Mr. Ruttenber's account of Colonel Lewis DuBois was also quoted by Frederick Cook, Secretary of State, in 1879, in his report of the Centennial Celebration of General Sullivan's Expedition.

Mr. C. M. Woolser, in his History of the Town of Marlborough tried to combine the records of two officers named Lewis DuBois. He refers on page 121, to Lewis DuBois, Major, in signing a license for Elizabeth Wiggin on April 11, 1777. On the next page, he refers to Lewis DuBois, Colonel, as president of a court martial trying Jacobus Rose and other Tory prisoners, on practically the same date.

There is all kinds of evidence that both of these officers were doing splendid service in their respective organizations. While Colonel DuBois was with his regiment at Fort Montgomery in October, 1777, General James Clinton, in a letter to the governor, on October 4, says:

There is very few of the militia yet come down. I can't tell the number as I have had no returns from them as yet. There has no Field Officers come down with any of the Regiment except Major DuBois of Colo. Hasbrouck's Regt., which are at Fort Constitution. (38) Lieutenant Colonel Hasbrouck, in his report of extra service of Colonel Hasbrouck's regiment, says: "100 days at Fort Constitution, the 1st of October 1777 under the command of Major Lewis DuBois." (39)

Again, October 22, 1777, General James Clinton reports:

Major DuBois with his 4 companies from Newburgh, along the river as you formerly ordered them. (40)

I can find no record to show that Major Lewis DuBois of Marlborough, during his lifetime, ever used the word "Colonel" with his signature or his correspondence.

The following correspondence from the Public Papers of George Clinton conclusively shows that he was a major in the fall of 1777.

Newburgh-November 22, 1777. Sir I understand by Capt. Case that all my Neighbors are Discharged from the Guard house on condition of giving Security for their future Good Behavior Except John Polhemus & Isaac Croppie and altho I allow them to have been bad, I could wish for their families sake they might be indulged with the same Privilege: As I think what they have suffered is Pritty well for their past Conduct: so if it should please your Excellency to Grant the favour to them I shall take Care to their Giving Security and their future Conduct.

I am Sir your most obedient Humble Servt.

Lewis DuBois, Major. To his Excellency, George Clinton, Esq. (41)

To which the governor answered: [Nov. 15, 1777] Sir, In Consequence of your Letter of Yesterday I have dismissed C. & P. from the Care of the Guard here & delivered them over to Mr. Edwards Chairman of your Committee to be dealt with by the Civil Authority according to their Deserts; them; they are released at your Request & you must for their future Conduct, & for the Consequence of looking over the past of any Injury should arise to the public by their passing unpunished should be the Case. I am yours &c.

[C. C.] [To Maj Lewis DuBois] (42) Major Lewis DuBois was fourth in descent from Louis DuBois the Patentee:

1. Louis DuBois and Catharine Blaujean

2. Louis DuBois, second, and Rachel Hasbrouck

3. Nathaniel DuBois and Gertrude Bruyn

Lewis DuBois married Rachel Hasbrouck. He served through the Revolution as a Major in Colonel Jonathan Hasbrouck's regiment and, as we have seen, was much of the time in active service. Colonel Jonathan Hasbrouck's wife, Catharine DuBois, and Major DuBois's wife, Rachel Cornelius DuBois and Margaret Houghtaling, in May 1778, Colonel Hasbrouck, owing to ill health, resigned as colonel of his regiment and there seems to have been some misunderstanding among the other officers. Colonel Hasbrouck wrote to Governor Clinton asking advice:

Collo. Hasbrouck then laid down the Command of the Regt. & Indeed Ever since Refused to act, the Rest of the field Officers, in particular Majr DuBois seems to Decline, what he may do (if offered) I will not say. (43)

There seems to be no later mention of his name in the records and it is fairly safe to assume that he resigned. Major Lewis DuBois died at Marlborough, N. Y.

1802, in the inscription on his grave-stone he is referred to as "Major Lewis DuBois, aged 74 years, 3 months, 27 days."

Highlights of Address In Steiwer's Keynote Speech

By The Associated Press
Cleveland, June 9.—Some of the phrases coined by Chairman Steiwer in his speech were:

The New Deal depends on bookworms for practical experience and on bookworms for energy.

If Noah, in anticipation of the flood, had installed an irrigation system instead of building the ark, his mistake would have been no worse than have been the New Deal economic blunders.

No government can borrow itself rich, or spend itself prosperous.

New Deal extravagance is bending the backs of the people with an unfair burden and has condemned all the babies of the entire nation to be rocked in cradles decorated by debt.

Fixing of prices by monopolies and combine picks the pocket of the buying public.

The most priceless privilege of citizenship under the American flag is the right to seek and obtain merit reward, unhampered, unrestrained and unafraid.

There are no party lines when human liberty is at stake.

For more than three long years we have had a government without political morality.

There could be no better testimony of the strength of the American system and to the character of the American people than that it has been able to sustain the orgy of the New Deal.

The money system must not be any man's toy.

Centralization of power is the Siamese twin of bureaucracy.

The government today is literally the worst, most conscienceless employer in the land.

If the Salvation Army had used its good works to build a political organization, as was done by the New Deal army, it could have claimed the whole world—not merely the forty-eight states claimed by Farley.

Cannonading at the New Deal set the tempo for today's third session of the Republican convention while the Landon-steered platform committee struggled in long, wearying conferences to agree on the party's high policy.

Still lacking the desired accord on such sizzling controversies as money, monopoly and minimum wages, the policy makers recessed their formal committee session for a time early today. William Allen White, committee member and Landon backer, left the room bent on conferring with Senator Borah of Idaho.

Borah, enigma of the convention, has thundered against a return to the gold standard or a constitutional amendment on wages, while demanding a plank pledging a death blow to monopoly.

As for the convention proper, the gavel which will signal the presidential nomination, possibly late Thursday night, was placed in the hands of Rep. Bertrand Snell of New York, as permanent chairman. Snell, who has battled Roosevelt legislation as minority leader of the House of Representatives, was on the program for the chief speech of today's session.

Names mentioned for the vice-presidency including Steiwer (who had strong friends in both East and West); Governor H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire; former Senators Otis F. Glenn of Illinois and Walter Edge of New Jersey; Robert A. Taft of Ohio; Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania; and—regardless of his "I won't take it"—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan.

Col. Frank K. Miller of Illinois took a stand for a dollar, redeemable in gold at the present value, to the dissatisfaction of an outspoken element having a hand in the platform making. He indicated that unless the plank meets his views, he would not allow his name to be presented for the nomination.

As the platform parleys proceeded, the telephone line to Topeka, home of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, was kept busy to prevent a schism.

Captains for Governor Landon, whose friends have been urging him for the nomination as a "middle-of-the-roader," easily gained the key positions on the committee. As early as last night there were rumors of an overture by them to obtain Borah views but the Idaho senator waited up until late hours without the expected mediator showing up.

Snell and Steiwer both showed they did not consider it appropriate for them to take a hand as between Landon, Borah and Knox—the only acknowledged rivals. The keynote was "party solidarity" in the face of the common enemy, much like Snell's appeal in taking up at Chicago four years ago the same job he has here.

Steiwer specifically invited a political campaign on the issues "regardless of party lines," and said the voters "need never again fear a debacle such as we had in March, 1933, when a president-elect without a conscience refused for four months to cooperate with a President who had a conscience, resulting in a bank crash and a panic."

Throughout the present administration he has been the spearhead of the Republican opposition to the New Deal.

Graduating from Amherst College a year before Calvin Coolidge, Snell soon entered the paper manufacturing business. He worked as "lumber-jack," bookkeeper, secretary and then manager of the company.

Since 1915 he has represented the 31st New York District in Congress. Although a severe critic of the New Deal he acknowledges that it is not "all bad." But he adds it is "only the purposes of some things that are all right—primarily those that have been copied from Hoover."

Snell's knowledge of parliamentary rules helped get him the post of convention chairman in 1932 and again this year.

Besides a burning interest in politics, the 66-year-old New Yorker likes to fish.

"The combined efforts of reckless and uninformed trade agreements plus monetary policies," he contended, "are fast putting our nation under foreign control. The devaluation of the dollar, combined with the purchase of gold at $35 an ounce, has given to foreigners in gold standard countries a bargain rate in America."

Steiwer Now Looms As Candidate for Vice-Presidency

Cleveland, June 10 (AP).—Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon was thrust forward today in the ranks of vice-presidential prospects by his resounding keynote speech.

Previously mentioned only tentatively, Steiwer's speech encouraged some delegates to boom him into line for second-in-command on the ticket.

Texas delegates launched a vice-presidential drive for Colonel Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, a candidate for the presidential nomination. Whether Knox would accept the second place on the ticket remained to be seen.

Out of the east came campaigns for three "favorite son" candidates for the number two position. New Hampshire delegates worked for 38-year-old Governor H. Styles Bridges. New Jersey sounded off for former Senator Walter E. Edge while the call of Maryland's Governor Harry W. Nice for an eastern vice-president was looked upon by many observers as a bid for the post.

 FORT EWEN *****

Fort Ewen, June 10.—The June meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the school house at 2 o'clock, Friday afternoon. Members are asked to please note the change in time. A large attendance is desired.

All notices for the bulletin of the Methodist Episcopal Church for next Sunday should be handed to the pastor by Thursday noon of this week. The fire department team will play soft ball with the Union Hose Co. team at Ponchockie at 6:30 this evening.

A meeting of the official board of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held at 8:45 Thursday evening after it is too dark for painting. The public is invited to attend the card party which will be given in the Pythian Hall lodge room by Hope Temple, No. 86, Pythian Sisters, at 8:30 o'clock this evening. Pinocchio and bunco will be played. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Lucie Bishop and Miss Mary F. Bishop entertained the Daughters of Liberty at their home Monday at a pot luck dinner and a bunco party in honor of Miss Nellie Gardner's birthday. The house was beautifully decorated with red and white roses and the red, white and blue flags of the Sons and Daughters of Liberty. After the bunco games, dainty refreshments were served and later the guests departed all wishing Miss Nellie many more such happy birthdays. Miss Gardner received many gifts and two lovely bouquets of roses. The guests present were Mrs. Mary F. Bishop, Mrs. Lucie Bishop, Mrs. Donald Decker, Mrs. Mary Best, Mrs. Martha Van Vleet, Mrs. Kimball Van Vleet, Mrs. Martin Schaefer, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor, Mrs. John Holliday, Mrs. Webster Munson, Mrs. Vinai LeFever and Miss Nellie Gardner.

As the platform parleys proceeded, the telephone line to Topeka, home of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, was kept busy to prevent a schism.

Captains for Governor Landon, whose friends have been urging him for the nomination as a "middle-of-the-roader," easily gained the key positions on the committee. As early as last night there were rumors of an overture by them to obtain Borah views but the Idaho senator waited up until late hours without the expected mediator showing up.

Snell and Steiwer both showed they did not consider it appropriate for them to take a hand as between Landon, Borah and Knox—the only acknowledged rivals. The keynote was "party solidarity" in the face of the common enemy, much like Snell's appeal in taking up at Chicago four years ago the same job he has here.

Steiwer specifically invited a political campaign on the issues "re-

Snell Man of Day At G.O.P. Convention

Cleveland, June 10 (AP).—The convention figure of the day—Rep. Bertrand H. Snell, permanent chairman—A stocky, blue-eyed, raspy-voiced man is the House of Representatives minority floor leader.

Throughout the present administration he has been the spearhead of the Republican opposition to the New Deal.

Graduating from Amherst College a year before Calvin Coolidge, Snell soon entered the paper manufacturing business. He worked as "lumber-jack," bookkeeper, secretary and then manager of the company.

Since 1915 he has represented the 31st New York District in Congress.

Although a severe critic of the New Deal he acknowledges that it is not "all bad." But he adds it is "only the purposes of some things that are all right—primarily those that have been copied from Hoover."

Snell's knowledge of parliamentary rules helped get him the post of convention chairman in 1932 and again this year.

Besides a burning interest in politics, the 66-year-old New Yorker likes to fish.

NEW YORK HIGHLIGHTS

Cleveland, O., June 10 (AP).—Ogden L. Mills, former secretary of the treasury and one time Republican gubernatorial nominee in New York, says emphatically: "We shall beat Mr. Roosevelt."

"His record is a record of failure," he said. "When he took office the big question before the country was the problem of unemployment. It is still with us—and in an aggravated form."

Broad-shouldered Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York says "Borah is the one man of ability left."

Four New York state women, former presidents of the National Women's Republican Club, had a get-together in a hotel lobby. They were Mrs. Conyn Van Rensselaer of New York city, Mrs. H. A. Caraway of Carmel, Miss Alice Hall of Chittenden and Mrs. George A. Wyeth of Riverdale.

Miss Jane Todd, New York assemblywoman from Westchester county, is the new head of the steering committee of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women. She is a delegate to the convention.

Landon Says No Trip to Convention

Topeka, Kas., June 10 (AP).—Gov. Alf M. Landon said definitely today he would not go to Cleveland "regardless of developments" at the Republican national convention.

Landon announced his decision after he had declined an offer by Col. Clarence D. Chamberlain, transatlantic flier, to convey the governor to the convention city.

Saying "I am not going to Cleveland," the governor indicated he would not change his mind regardless of any developments at the convention.

Landon cleared his desk of mail and kept a 10 o'clock appointment with his dentist.

Ely Will Cast Lot With Republicans

Westfield, Mass., June 10 (AP).—Former Governor Joseph B. Ely, Democrat and New Deal critic, said today he would cast his lot with the Republican party if the 1936 Democratic platform intimates any attempt to revive certain New Deal policies. He said he would "take a walk" if his party's platform hinted at attempts to revive such policies as the NRA and AAA, both declared unconstitutional.

Apple Maggot Control Described in Circular

Geneva, N. Y., June 10.—Because the apple maggot is present in all sections of New York and is a serious pest in some apple-growing regions, entomologists at the Experiment Station here have issued a brief circular describing the work of the insect and outlining control measures for different sections of the state. The circular is one of a series of similar pamphlets on common insect pests of New York which the station specialists will issue from time to time. A copy may be obtained without cost upon request to the station.

Wormy apples due to invasions of the codling moth are familiar to everyone, but the presence in the orchard of the apple maggot, or "railroad" worm as it is sometimes called, is often overlooked or is likely to be confused with other troubles, it is said. The first external signs of the apple maggot are the tiny egg punctures in the skin and small distorted or pitted areas on the surface. These are easily overlooked, however, unless the infestation is very heavy and the first indication that the average person may have the fruit is infested will be the corky spots or streaks in the flesh of late-maturing varieties or the small tunnels that fairly honeycomb the flesh in early-ripening varieties. Severely infested fruits generally decay rapidly.

June 20 to August 10 Critical Period
The apple maggot shows a distinct preference for sweet varieties, while among the acid and subacid sorts Red Astrachan, Gravenstein, Twenty Ounce, Femeuse, Jonathan, and Northern Spy are especially susceptible to attack. The injury is caused by the grub or larval stage of the insect, hence control measures are aimed at the adult flies in an effort to prevent egg laying which usually extends from about June 20 to August 10 with the peak of the egg laying coming about the middle of July.

Recommended sprays and dusts for apple maggot and approximate dates of treatment for different sections of the state are given in the circular. The station specialists point out that it is absolutely essential for effective control of this pest to treat all trees in the orchard whether fruit is present or not and that neglected apple trees within a distance of 150 to 200 yards may be sources of trouble and should either receive the maggot treatments or be cut down.

Christian Endeavor

NEWS

Picnic on June 12.

On Saturday afternoon and evening of this week, the Endeavorers of Ulster county will gather at Tillson Lake for their annual picnic. The committee in charge have worked out a program which promises plenty of action and enjoyment for everyone. One of the main events will be a boat race between various societies. The outing will officially start at 5 p. m. with a devotional service beginning at 8 o'clock.

Talieu to Speak at Picnic.
Richard B. "Dick" Talieu of Dutchess county, will lead the singing at the devotional service, and will also tell about some of the highlights of the coming state convention. Mr. Talieu is State Regional Director of the East Hudson District and is the official song-leader of the New York State Union. He is well qualified to speak on the convention, being the vice-chairman of the convention committee.

Poster Exhibition.
All posters that are to be entered in the County Union contest must be exhibited at the picnic on Saturday. Here they will be judged and the winners will be entered in the State Contest at Poughkeepsie in July.

Convention Delegates.
This notice is to remind all convention delegates that they must make reservations for lodging and for banquets at an early date. Each banquet is limited in accommodations, as are available rates at hotels and homes.

Convention News.
The acceptance of the Rev. Luther Wesley Smith has been received as the speaker for the opening session on Thursday evening. Mr. Smith is minister of the First Baptist Church of Syracuse, and is considered one of the foremost preachers of New York state. Many should no doubt remember the stirring message that he delivered at the Cortland Leader's Conference last fall.

There also comes word of the acceptance for Conference leadership of Samuel L. Hamilton, professor of religious education of New York University. Dr. Hamilton will lead conferences and discussion groups and will also conduct a conference for ministers on Saturday morning, July 4.

State Convention Speaker.
The State Convention at Poughkeepsie, July 2-5, will be given an international character by the presence of Kim-On, Chong, Chinese-Hawaiian, who was born in Kohala, Hawaii, of Chinese parentage, and graduated from the University of Hawaii in 1934. Mr. Chong is at present a student in Auburn Theological Seminary and will share in the leadership of the convention. He will be one of those to bring messages at the World Friendship and Missionary Supper to be held on Sunday afternoon, July 5.

Christian Endeavor of the East has a worthy representative in Mr. Chong; he being one of its foremost leaders, both in Hawaii and the United States. He was exceptionally successful as the president of the Honolulu County Christian Endeavor Union and has been in demand as a speaker to many Endeavor societies, bringing messages that are both thoughtful and challenging. He comes with a clear understanding of the problems relating to the Orient, and speaks on the international aspect of race and color out of first hand information and experience as observed by him in those islands which are called the "cross-roads of the Pacific and world races."

Zena Meeting.
The Zena Christian Endeavor Society held a very interesting devotional meeting last Friday evening with the Rev. John Heidenreich speaking on the "Value of Hymns to The Christian Church." The minister told of the history of Hymn writing, and gave some interesting biographies of some of the pioneer writers. At some future date, Mr. Heidenreich has promised to speak on "American Hymn Writers." Reports of the beginning of Zena's "blue canopy meetings" should soon be coming to our attention. Last year this type of meeting met with great success, and with the advent of the summer season it is expected that this practice will be resumed.

The "Flying Dutchmen"
Most Christian Endeavor Societies run in a cycle, that is, one year they will be practically non-existent, and then for a period of time they will rise to a greater membership and a greater program of activity. The Christian Endeavor of the First Reformed Church in Kingston is now on the way up the cycle. Two years ago they were almost unheard of, and now they boast a membership of 50 active people. Last Sunday evening they received five new members at a meeting that was attended by 42 Endeavorers. Next Sunday the regular meeting has been postponed on account of Children's Day services and the following Sunday has also been given up in favor of the graduating class of the high school. On Saturday evening, June 20, there will be a strawberry festival in the rear of the parsonage on Main street.

Active Baptist Program
The Albany Avenue Baptist Endeavorers enjoyed a fine discussion last Sunday evening on the topic of "Crime, its causes and cures." Many ideas for the elimination of all sorts of crimes were brought out and lively argument ensued on the merits of each method. Sherwood Lasher was the leader for the discussion. Next Sunday the Baptists will have a special speaker in the person of Russell Broughton, but what Mr. Broughton's topic will be is not yet known. A delegation of 25 or 30 members are planning to attend the County Union Picnic this Saturday.

Graves Dismisses Davenport Appeal For Town of Rochester
Albany, June 10 (Special)—State Education Commissioner Frank P. Graves has dismissed an appeal filed by Mrs. Edward Davenport, asking that all action taken at the annual district meeting of school district No. 2, in the town of Rochester, Ulster county, be vacated, and that a new meeting be ordered.

The petition of Mrs. Davenport was based on the allegation that notices of the meeting, held May 5, were not posted.

In dismissing her appeal, Commissioner Graves said: "It has been held that the failure of the clerk to post notices of an annual meeting will not, of itself, render such meeting invalid. The law fixes the time for holding the annual meeting, and its regularity does not depend upon any call by trustees or on notice by the clerk."

KENNETH CLARK PASSES INSURANCE EXAMINATION
Albany, June 10 (Special)—The State Insurance Department announces that Kenneth K. Clark, of Tillson, Ulster county, is among those who passed the recent examinations conducted by the department for insurance agent's certificates.

In announcing the names of those who were successful in passing the tests, the department also asks that "any persons knowing any reason why the individuals named should not be granted a broker's or agent's certificate of authority, are requested to communicate with either the New York or Albany office of the State Insurance Department."

Waldorf Hotel.

J. Frank Toole of 5-718 32nd street, Jackson Heights, N. Y., and Harry B. Oldridge of 333 Lincoln Road, Brooklyn, have certified to the county clerk that they are conducting a business at Phoenixia under the style and name Waldorf Hotel.

Langworthy Is Able Man, Friends State

Cleveland, June 10 (AP)—The platform upon which the Republican party leaders hope to defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt was being whipped into shape today by a committee headed by one of the president's schoolmates—Herman M. Langworthy of Kansas City.

Langworthy, chosen yesterday to head the resolutions committee of the Republican National Convention, studied law at Columbia University, New York, at the same time Roosevelt was a student there.

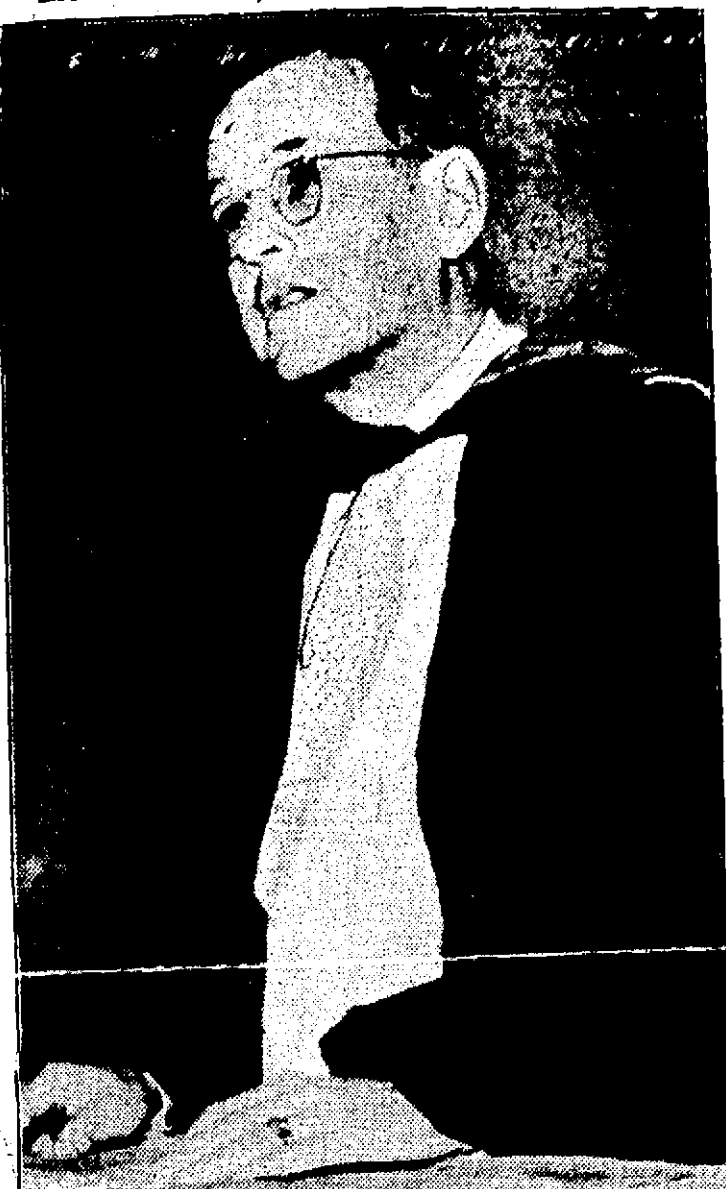

But he also claims another alma mater—the University of Kansas, in common with Governor Alf. M. Landon, the man he is supporting for the presidential nomination.

Philanthrop Meeting.

Tuesday evening the Philanthropic and Baruch classes of the First Street Baptist Church held their monthly business meeting and were at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Terwilliger, 229 East Union street.

Many matters of importance were discussed for the welfare of the church. There was a large attendance of the members. The classes are always very anxious to attend a meeting at Mrs. Terwilliger's, as it affords them a new view of the Hudson river. The women and men were served and a most delightful time was enjoyed by all.

3 Big State Groups Watch Convention For Pivotal Posts

Cleveland, June 10 (AP)—Leaders of three big state delegations with a total of 209 votes carefully watched the convention scene today in the apparent hope that their states would be pivotal factors in swinging the presidential nomination tide.

The delegations in which the balance of power tactics evidently were being contemplated were New York, with 90 votes, Pennsylvania, 75, and California, 44.

It was conceivable that a swing of a major portion of the delegates from the three states to Landon might precipitate such a landslide as would give him the nomination on the first ballot. But leaders of some delegations were in no hurry to announce definite intentions, although other members were reported to be impatient to decide.

Pennsylvania withheld a decision at a caucus yesterday. "We thought it would be good strategy to hold back until the situation crystallizes more definitely," said former Senator David A. Reed.

While the delay confused some as to their purposes, John D. M. Hamilton, manager for Governor Landon, increased his estimate of the number of New York delegates the Kansas would get to 41 or 42.

Earlier he had estimated 20 or 25. Other caucuses of the day were called to decide where to send Alabama's 13 delegates and Arizona's six. Caucuses yesterday sent 10 of Arkansas 11 delegates to Landon, and formally put Vermont's nine votes and New Mexico's six in that column.

The amount was the cash balance as of May 31 after the deduction of $57,549 in expenses for March, April and May. During the three months' period there were contributions of $425,152.

Some of the larger contributors were John D. Rockefeller, $5,000; John D. Jr., $5,000; John D. 3rd, $5,000; Lawrence S. Rockefeller, $1,000; Andrew W. Mellon, Paul Mellon, Richard K. Mellon, Mrs. Sarah Mellon Scaife, and Mrs. Jennie K. Mellon, $5,000 each.

Events Around Convention Town

Cleveland, June 10 (AP)—While thousands cheered, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan stood on the Republican convention platform saying "Walla, walla, walla, walla, walla" over and over again. He was not on the program for an address, but photographers insisted that he move his lips as if making an oratorical flight. They couldn't suggest anything to say, so Vandenberg decided on "Walla, walla."

Representative Fish of New York, Borah booster, strode through a hotel lobby wearing Kansas sun-bowers all over his broad back. Landon voters had shamed them there when he wasn't looking.

By count, Senator Stetson's keynote speech was interrupted 42 times by applause. One enthusiastic gentleman appeared to be wearing a 1922 straw hat. It had a blue and white band and was loudly proclaimed: "Hoover and Curtis."

Scores of women spectators in the brightly illuminated hall were wear-

"Business as Usual" Is Landon Program

Topeka, Kas., June 10 (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon went about "business as usual" today. He had a ready car for word from Cleveland where his supporters are confident he will be given the Republican presidential nomination, but while some eager statehouse employees brought radio to work, there was none in the chief executive's office.

He had one at home, and the telephone there also brought him occasional information from the convention.

After hearing Senator Frederick Steiwer's keynote speech last night, Landon commented: "It was a fine speech. I listened with much interest."

When the loud speaker system broke down during the keynote speech, a man in the balcony yelled through cupped hands: "Look out for those Democrats. Senator Steiwer." The senator laughed.

Landon Forces Ready To Hear Senator Borah On Platform Program

Cleveland, June 10 (AP)—Landon forces today assured Senator Borah a hearing on his platform proposals and promised him an opportunity to address the convention, if they are rejected by the resolutions committee.

While members of the resolutions sub-committee waited, William Allen White, platform spokesman for Governor Landon of Kansas, consulted Borah.

He then went to the sub-committee meeting room and called out former Senator John Thomas of Idaho and, turning to reporters, said:

"The play is from Borah to White to Thomas."

"I have just seen Senator Borah. I took him a copy of the platform as it stands now. Senator Thomas has gone to see him and will bring his suggestions to the committee."

"If he so desires, the Landon forces will move that he be heard in the committee and if the committee rejects his proposals he will move that he be permitted to place his views before the convention."

Thomas went immediately to Borah's hotel room, a few floors above. After a brief conference he emerged, declining to comment.

A few minutes later, Borah himself came to the door to beckon in his secretary.

Position Unchanged

"My position is unchanged," he said. "If my proposals are rejected, I want an opportunity to defend them from the floor of the convention."

Borah added that he now had a copy of the Landon platform, had not yet examined it, but planned to study it in detail.

A bitter platform dispute, centering on the monetary, farm and foreign affairs planks, threatened today to hold the Republican national convention in session until Saturday.

The drafting sub-committee of the resolutions committee recessed without having made any headway on a 2,000 word "states rights" platform presented by the dominant Landon forces.

Tired members were called back into session again later but they forecast the committee would not be ready to report tonight as scheduled.

Authoritative sources said powerful eastern members of the platform sub-committee were not satisfied with the monetary plank offered by those supporting Governor Alf Landon, of Kansas, for the presidential nomination. There were strong hints of a minority report.

Trouble was also forecast by committee members in reaching an agreement on the farm and foreign affairs planks, but the long threatening conflict over a proposal for a constitutional amendment to permit state legislation on minimum wages seemed to be ebbing.

Conciliatory Language

Conciliatory language on the minimum wage issue seemed to have dissipated opposition from the more conservative committee members.

Speculation was aroused by a remark from William Allen White, chief Landon representative on the sub-committee, that he hoped to see Senator Borah. Rumors had been spread around all day that Borah would cooperate with the Landon forces in writing the platform.

Asked about negotiations with Borah for cooperating in writing the platform, White told newspapermen: "I haven't been able to see him, but I hope to."

White hinted there was no plan in the Landon camp for a plank pledging restoration of the gold standard. At the same time, the Emporia editor remarked that he himself was "an old fashioned man."

In favor of a straight gold standard."

"It was the failure to declare for a 'straight gold standard' which apparently failed to please the easterners on the sub-committee. But the platform makers had a wide range of sentiment on this issue to reconcile."

On the one hand, was Frank Knox, the Illinois candidate for the presidential nomination, who declared yesterday for a dollar exchangeable in gold. On the other, was Borah demanding managed currency and hostile to the gold standard.

Landon leaders hinted their proposed monetary plank looked toward eventual stabilization on a gold standard. They said it made no mention of the New Deal's silver purchase program.

The balance of the platform presented by the Landon leaders was said to have a strong "states rights" tinge. This theory was said to run through the planks on agriculture, social security, the minimum wage, and relief.

Virtual abandonment of plans for submitting the platform report to the convention tonight raised the possibility that the speech tonight by former President Hoover might have an influence on the party's declaration of policies.

Earliest Hebrew Temple

Was Erected by Solomon

The temple was the religious edifice of the Jews in Jerusalem. There were three buildings successively erected in the same spot, and named after their builders—the temple of Solomon, the temple of Zerubbabel, and the temple of Herod. The first was built by Solomon and was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar about 586 B. C. The second was built by the Jews on their return from the captivity (about 537 B. C.), and was pillaged or partly destroyed several times, especially by Antiochus Epiphanes, Pompey and Herod. The third, the largest and most magnificent of the three, was begun by Herod the Great, and was completely destroyed at the capture of Jerusalem by the Romans (A. D. 70). Various attempts have been made toward the restoration of the first and the third of these temples, but scholars are not agreed in respect to architectural details.

Teak Wood Valuable

Teak, for some purposes the most valuable of all woods, is chiefly produced commercially by Burma, although it is also supplied by India, Siam and Java. As a plant, teak is remarkable for its large leaves, which reach ten to twelve inches in length and eight to fifteen in breadth, and are so rough that they are used for sandpapering. The trees often grow 80 to 100 feet tall, with a circumference of six to ten feet, the largest recorded log cut in Upper Burma in 1895, having measured 87 1/2 feet in length and yielded over twelve tons of timber. The wood varies from yellow to straw color to a rich brown when first cut, darkening on exposure; sometimes it has dark and almost black streaks or veins. It is hard, and very durable.

Captain Rosen Will Command The First Battalion of Regiment

Captain Reuben M. Rosen, commanding officer of Battery C, senior Poughkeepsie unit of the 156th Artillery and for 16 years associated with the New York National Guard, has been assigned to command of the First Battalion of the regiment to succeed Major Oscar R. Hillebrand of Kingston, resigned, according to orders received at the state armory today from Colonel Otto Thiede of Mount Vernon, regimental commander.

Captain Rosen is well known in this city, being a brother of Mrs. J. L. Kramer of 35 Emerson street.

The same orders assigned First Lieutenant Thomas J. Whalen as commander of Battery C and to take the place of Captain Rosen and designated the Poughkeepsie armory as headquarters of the First Battalion in place of the Kingston armory. No change in rank of either officer was immediately made.

Captain Rosen, who was predicted in The Poughkeepsie Evening Star last week as the probable successor to Major Hillebrand, is understood to have been granted the promotion because of his administrative ability. His Poughkeepsie battery has always been accorded high rank by state and federal inspecting officers.

His staff comprises Captain Behrens of Kingston, executive officer, First Lieutenant Eckert of Kingston, plans and training officer, and a reconnaissance officer, this post at present vacant with an appointment expected to be made about September 1. At the same time, Captain Rosen is expected to receive the rank of major.

Captain Rosen became associated with the National Guard on August 17, 1917, and on February 28, 1918, was commissioned a second lieutenant. Since that time he has not missed a drill night or military event. From 1915 to 1921, he served with the 1st Infantry unit then assigned to the city. In 1921 he was assigned the task of changing the outfit into two units of the 132nd Ammunition Train which he commanded as a first lieutenant.

In 1924 when he was commissioned captain he had another opportunity to prove his administrative ability when he was called upon to re-organize the unit into a Field Artillery battery.

"Tonight will be the first time I haven't appeared in uniform with Battery C," Captain Rosen observed reflectively. He added he expected to be at the armory nevertheless.

At battalion commander, the captain will have charge of the administration of Batteries B and C of this city; Battery A of Kingston; and the First Battalion headquarters and combat train unit of Kingston. In all there are some 230 National Guardsmen in his charge, this number being the peacetime strength of the battalion.

In event of war, the strength would be doubled and the battalion commander would receive the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Thursday nights have been set aside as staff nights when the battalion commander and his staff will gather here for their work. Offices will be probably set up in the officers' quarters at the armory, the captain said.

Captain Rosen was born on Dec. 2, 1890, in Yonkers and moved to this city at the age of five when his father, Herman J. Rosen, came here to enter the tailor business. Goldstein and Rosen, the firm with which he is associated at 20 Garden street, marked its 40th anniversary on May 1.

The captain attended the public schools of the city and later attended Riverview Military Academy from which he graduated in 1908. Since that time he has been associated with his father.

First Lieutenant Whalen was born in Millbrook, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Whalen, and attended the school there and Millbrook High School. He enlisted with Co. K, local unit of the 10th Infantry and served overseas in the World War with the 105th Infantry of the 25th Division, participating in several major offensives.

He served as second lieutenant under Commander Rosen while the latter was in command of the old 132nd Ammunition Train here and was commissioned a first lieutenant when Lieutenant Rosen was moved up to the captaincy of Battery C.

and the kidnappers but one has been reported arrested. The report might put the G-Men to searching out something or that has not yet been heard of in the East.

Not the least interesting of the day's program was the exploring of the old three-story, vine covered stone house which was built in 1722 by William Bull, a young Englishman. He was a stone mason. With Sarah, his wife, he raised a family of twelve children, who did likewise, until the descendants now number 5,500. The house is owned by the William Bull Association, which maintains it and keeps it in the best of repair. The house has always been occupied and no one but a member of the Bull family has ever lived in

Hedrick Brewers Score 6-4 Win Over Berardis in League Game

Scoring five runs in the third inning the Hedrick Brewers managed to withstand a four run onslaught in the Berardi half of the fourth to win a city league game last night before a good sized crowd of fans. The winners pushed another run in the fifth to make the final count 6-4.

Joe Brown held the A. C. to seven hits and fanned nine, while on the offense he hit two singles and drove in two runs.

Julius Chick started for the Berardis but was sent to the showers during the fatal third. Spot Cullen took over the mound duties and tossed a good ball for the remainder of the game.

The winners' five runs in the third were made by C. Bock, Brown and Turk singled. Three walks an error and a hit batsman followed.

Brown's two bagger and single by Quest put across the other run in the fifth.

C. & R. Social Blank Altamari Aces, 9-0

Playing championship ball behind the three hit pitching of "Johnny" Snyder, the C. & R. Social Club shut out the Altamari Aces 9-0 at the Fair Grounds last night. The entire C. & R. team was in a batting mood but the real batting honors went to the Woods brothers, who drove in seven of the nine runs. "Sonny" Woods poked a homer in the first inning with the bases loaded while his brother "Jim", the diminutive catcher of the C. & R., connected for two hits and drove in three runs. This was the second successive shutout for the C. & R. this week as they blanked the North Roundout Social Club at Block Park Monday by a 12-0 tally. Tonight at Block Park the present feud between the C. & R. Club and the K. H. S. Faculty will be resumed. "Sinker Ball" Cullen and Skipper Kenay will form the teachers' battery while "Tiber" Tomshaw will team with his former tutors with Jim Woods receiving.

Boys Don't Give Max Much Chance Against Bomber from Detroit

Napanoch, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—As Max Schmeling, 30 years old and slower, neared the peak of form today for his battle against Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium, June 18, there wasn't an expert in his camp who figured he had a good chance against the exploding dynamite packed in the fists of his 22-year-old foe.

Der Maxie looked almost as good as ever, but the overwhelming opinion was that it wasn't good enough. The Black Uhlan, former heavyweight king, has a lot of steam behind his punches. He doesn't appear scared to death of Louis' reputation and he doesn't talk about the Brown Bomber. Yet his timing looked too slow and his defense works far too feeble.

"Max has the heart, the ambition, the will, and is fearless," was the general comment among experts. "but he hasn't got the speed to stay away from Louis' flailing punches. It'll be a great fight while it lasts, but it won't last long enough."

"Scared of him?" asks Schmeling. "For why should I be scared? Do you get scared when you sit down to write a story?"

"Sometimes we get nervous," he was told.

"Well, I don't even get nervous. Fighting is my business."

After fighting seven rounds yesterday against three sparring partners—Heinz Kahlhaas, Henry Cooper, Mickey McAvoy and Jerry Johnson—Max weighed in at 193, his ideal fighting weight.

The sparring mates gave good show before the crowd of 200,000 but also proved Max's defense against a left—Louis' best blow—was too weak for comfort.

Hal Is Hitting

Sport Slants

The sophomore year in the big leagues, the year that very often breaks the heart of a young ball player who seemed definitely headed for stardom on the strength of a sensational freshman season, almost did for Hal Trosky, big Cleveland first baseman. But, somehow or other, Hal managed to weather the storm and this season has been living up to the promise he showed when he came up in 1934.

Trosky was often nominated as the logical candidate for the slugging crown vacated by Babe Ruth on the strength of his prodigious slugging in 1934, Hal's first season in the big show.

But the following winter layoff seemed to have robbed him of his ability to hit. Or perhaps the American League hurriers got together and compared notes on the rookie. At any rate, Trosky's bat was anything but potent when the 1935 season started. In desperation Hal tried every remedy or suggestion offered by well-meaning friends and relatives. He shifted back and forth across the plate so often that he was all tangled up.

Never Gave Up. Just another morning glory who faded when the early enthusiasms of his freshman season faded, just another freshman gone stale, he was labeled. But Trosky never gave up trying. And when Steve O'Neill took over the reins late in the pennant race Hal began to show signs of life again.

This spring Trosky looked like the Trosky of 1934. Home runs have been rattling off his bat—he's pressing Jimmy Foss in the race for the 1936 home run title. And in the important "runs batted in" column you will find Trosky topped only by Bill Dickey of the Yankees.

The DiMaggios, the Lewises, the Brubakers, the Mizes and the other first year men who are riding so high as freshmen had better watch their step. The list of freshmen stars was equally as imposing in 1935 as in 1936. And just glance over last year's roll today.

Cy Blanton won 20 games for the Pirates last season, his first in the majors, and led National League hurriers in effectiveness. Compare that with his 1936 record of being unable to complete a single game so far. Clyde Clendenen of the Giants won 15 games while losing six last season. He has been taking his share of the bumps this year, and has only one victory to recommend him.

Pitchers Pass Out.

The National League in 1935 was proud of its crop of freshman pitchers—fellows like Roy Henshaw, Orville Jorgens, Ed Heusser, Fabian Kowalik and John Pessulo—yet they have failed to live up to the promise they showed. Terry Moore, Lew Rigges, Alex Kampouris, Phil Carraretta, Jose Gomez and Mel Almada are having a tough time holding on to the jobs they won last season.

The situation in the American League is no different. John Whitehead, Vernon Wilshire, Joe Sullivan and Vito Tamuli were sensations on the mound a year ago, but today they are lost in the crowd. Tamuli has returned to the minors. Whitehead, Sullivan and Wilshire have shown little this spring.

The outstanding members of this year's freshman crop are for the most part infielders and outfielders. Few first year moundmen have crashed into the spotlight as they did a year ago. So there is a possibility that a greater percentage will beat the sophomore hoodoo.

Dark-Hued Picture of Brown Bomber 'Lightens Up' on Closer Inspection

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Lakewood, N. J. (AP)—It really is just too bad about poor old Joe Louis, isn't it?

The Brown Bomber actually is in such terrible shape that it may require three instead of two rounds for him to start the birdies twittering for Herr Max Schmeling in the Yankee Stadium, New York, June 18.

For weeks Promoter Mike Jacobs' high-powered publicity experts have been crying by the column about Louis.

He was slow. He was listless and he was fat. He wasn't putting any steam behind his punches. He could not duck the half-hearted licks of his sparring partners. He just didn't seem to give a darn.

So your correspondent came here today to see the "hollow shell," that once was Louis.

Here's The "Inside Story"

Instead, just as might have been suspected, he found:

A sleek, well-conditioned athlete who can do just about what he wants to whenever he pulls on a pair of boxing gloves and climbs into the ring.

They said Louis was fat. Well he weighed exactly 198 today and that's about 20 pounds less than he's scale when he goes in against Schmeling.

They said he couldn't punch any more. Today he all but knocked the head off of Frank Schildknecht of Kansas City, who was Joe's last amateur opponent and who is now laboring as a sparring partner.

"You can see that left comb," said Frank after the work-out, "but you can't do nothing about it."

"Good I Ain't Max"

"He's the same old Louis. I don't say he can hit any harder than he might be almost killed me in the amateurs, but he's more polished. He knows how to handle himself. Me? I'm glad I ain't Schmeling."

Joe does appear a bit listless in his boxing and some of his playmates do not seem to have much trouble connecting with an occasional right hand belt, but this may be explained by the fact that the negro has been ordered to proceed under wraps.

Otherwise, Louis looks just as keen, just as well conditioned, just as fast (when speed is necessary) and just as hard to beat as when he trained for Max Baer and Primo Carnera.

John Roxborough, general manager of the Bomber's manage, has the answers to the sob stories of Mr. Jacobs' professional crepe-bangers.

He Can Take It

"Sure, we're holding Joe back," explained Roxborough, who may or may not have been talking out of school. "He's been inactive for five months—the longest he has ever gone without fighting—and he needs work. Do you think he would get it if we let him go out and knock everybody's block off with the first punch? Why he'd be so slow round that into form Schmeling might even stay five rounds with him."

"We have a man here who is supposed to be a clever boxer. All we want Joe to do with him is experiment—look for openings. We have three others known as sockers. Every time they hit Joe we give them three cheers. None of them has hurt him yet. It shows he can take it."

The others are reputed to have cast iron jaws and to be able to withstand any man's punches. Just wait till I whistle and see what Joe does for them."

The truth of the matter, as you may already have guessed, is that all these SOS calls from the Louis camp are just a part of the good Mr. Jacobs' gigantic publicity plot.

The heroic efforts of Signor Francis Albertini and his assistants to build up Schmeling having fallen somewhat flat, what was more natural than for Mr. Jacobs to order a drive to tear down Louis?

This is proceeding apace. But it doesn't fool the Lakewood veterans who find Mr. Jacobs' agents, with their tongues in their cheeks, busy tearing down Joe Louis for a terrible

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS-SOUNDS

By ELOISE TAYLOR O'BRIEN

HOLLYWOOD—How many times has a big-eyed feminine fan of Pat's said to me: "Isn't it wonderful to be married to a movie star?"

How many times have I longed to shout in reply: "I didn't marry the movie star... I married the man! The man I fell in love with, and who fell in love with me, ten years ago!"

The man who went without three meals a day in New York City one bitterly cold winter so that he could buy me a crystal necklace for Christmas. A cheap string of beads... but I love them. To me they are the most beautiful piece of jewelry I have today. Much more beautiful in my eyes than the expensive emerald and diamond ring the movie star bought this last Christmas.

Lovely Lilacs

The man who stood up in a crowded bus all the way from downtown New York to 101st street with an armful of lilacs wrapped in newspaper, one dreary rainy spring day, to make my day a little brighter. Those lilacs remain more lovely in my memory than all the exotic orchids that the movie star's wife wears to the various openings in Hollywood.

The man who bet ten dollars on a horse, when he was rehearsing a Broadway show, and was lucky enough to have the horse come in a 20-1 shot. He bought me a winter coat... a beautiful coat... it was green and trimmed with beaver. That was the nicest coat I ever had. Nicier than the expensive mink the movie star bought me a few seasons ago.

Pat's Dressing Gown
The man for whom I made a dressing gown... on a borrowed sewing machine, with four dollars' worth of material. It is the dressing gown the movie star still wears at his studio dressing room today. That dressing gown takes precedence over all the more costly ones the movie star's wife has given him.

SO... when a well-struck fan says to me, "Isn't it wonderful to be married to a movie star?" I merely smile, as a well-trained movie star's wife should, and answer, "Yes, indeed."

But in my heart I add, "—when the movie star is Pat O'Brien!"

MODES OF THE MOMENT

New beach "coveralls" are designed to keep the sun's rays from damaging fair skins this summer. The models come in both long coat and cape designs made of seersucker or terry cloth. Many are fashioned with hoods that can be pulled up to cover the head for further protection if desired. Wooden buttons and rope trims and ties are noted details. Sketched above is shown a coverall of ankle length in hooded cape style. It is fashioned of white terry cloth to contrast with a colorful suit. White rope trims the hood and forms the cord that ties under the chin. The other "coverall" is designed like a short-waisted, full-skirted coat of rust colored seersucker. The shirt-like top is marked with slanting pockets on the bodice. It fastens with wooden buttons of cylinder shape and has a self-tie sash at the waistline.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, June 10.—There was a full house attendance Sunday evening at the Odd Fellows' annual memorial service, held at the Olive Bridge Community Church. The program was sponsored jointly by the I. O. O. F. and Olive Rebekah lodges. The Rebekah sisters gowned in white presented a very beautiful and deeply impressive number. Appropriate solos and duets were featured by Mrs. A. J. Coffey, Mrs. Lena Burcher, Charles Gerwin and Mrs. Genevieve McLean. Others assisting with the choir singing were Mrs. William Davis and daughter, Mrs. Edward Wilson, and E. C. Davis. Mrs. Edna Gordon presided as organist. Arthur E. Trowbridge officiated superbly as master of ceremonies. The Rev. A. J. Coffey of Phoenix, who has been the principal speaker on various previous occasions, offered prayer, read the scriptures and gave a short but impressive address. Later in the program the Rev. C. L. Palmer of Kingston, a former member of Shokan I. O. O. F. Lodge, presented a timely and well received topic. His text was from the Gospel of Matthew, "Seek Ye First the Kingdom." He started his address by explaining that several I. O. O. F. regattas which draped the preacher's desk had been worn by his grandfather a century ago, at which time he had worked hand in hand with Thomas Willey, the father of American Odd Fellowship, who then was organizing the first Odd Fellow lodges in the Hudson Valley. Members of the congregation were permitted to examine these priceless relics after the close of the service. They were found to be beautifully hand-made and in excellent condition. A most impressive part of the program was the reading of the scroll of the dead members who have passed to the Great Beyond since the last memorial service. While the names were read by Mr. Trowbridge a verse of Nearer My God to Thee was sung softly. They are: John Jordan, Merritt Crispell, of Shokan Lodge, and Mrs. Fred Guinac of Olive Rebekah Lodge. Mr. Jordan also was a member of Tishkwa Rebekah Lodge of Phoenix. The committee consisting of Ira Elmendorf, Arthur Trowbridge and Elwyn Davis wish to express appreciation for the large attendance, also the wonderful support of all who took part.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Weidner of Locust Hill Farm observed the passing of their fifteenth wedding anniversary on Friday. The couple were felicitated by a host of friends.

The Ladies' Aid of the Baptist Community Church are planning to hold a fish supper with a variety of seasonal fixings in the near future, probably late in the coming week.

Currently muggy weather and an occasional light shower revives hopes that a drenching downpour may come soon and relieve the unusually severe drought condition. River-like brooks of mid-April are down to the stepping stone dry shod crossing stage. Hay field seedlings, which looked so promising, are drying up and ready for mowing two weeks ahead of normal schedule. Rye is headed out and already turning.

Donald Bishop has taken over the electrical contracting business, in which he has been associated of late, with Fred W. Brown of Stone Ridge.

Judge Henry Winchell of Sunny Cliff Farm, in company with his comely wife and several friends, motored to Kingston Monday evening, where Mr. Winchell attended a directors' meeting of the Ulster County Grand Jurors' Association.

It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. J. Gaylord Ayers, who have become so well and favorably established in this locality after a residence of some years, will leave soon as their respective schools close for their former home upstate. The couple has shown a keen interest in fraternal and social connections and a host of friends will keenly regret their leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton E. Locke of Rochester are spending an enjoyable vacation period at their "Shady Rest" camp at Samsonville.

Sarah Florence Rose of West Shokan Heights is ill and unable to attend school at this writing.

The Winchell District School took a day off on Thursday and went for a day's outing to Allabon and Pine Hill, which was much enjoyed by the youngsters. Next Thursday, June 11, will be the closing day for the spring term and at one o'clock, standard time, an all afternoon picnic will be held in the pines near the school grounds. Mrs. Mildred Beesmer, the teacher, cordially extends to all who wish to attend a most cordial invitation.

Among a class of 14, a group of local children received their first Holy Communion at the Stony Hollow Catholic Church Sunday morning. They were Christopher Hendrickson, Dorothy Dwyer, Margaret Wagner, William Wagner, Joseph Wagner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wagner of Main street entertained a week-end group of relatives and friends from the metropolitan area.

Dr. Robert McCartney of Ellenville and his veteran assistant, Lewis Hayner, are giving the annual tuberculosis test to dairy herds in and adjoining the reservoir country milkshed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wendzel of Harrison, New Jersey, are spending a week's vacation at Maple Dell Farm. Mr. Wendzel has been coming here for many years during the deer hunting season and usually brings his buck.

Donald Bishop motored to Hobart Sunday where he visited his uncle and aunt, Judge and Mrs. A. Lindel O'Connor, also his brother, Bob, who has completed his third year at Mt. Herman, Mass., Prep school.

Six new members were added to the rolls of Olive Rebekah Lodge, No. 470, at their last Thursday evening meeting held at the Olive Bridge I. O. O. F. Hall. The degree ceremony was very beautifully and impressively conferred by the Olive Rebekah staff. A bounteous luncheon and pleasing social program followed. The group of six new members included Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Schwab, and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Christians and Lawrence Van Gasbeck. Olive Rebekah Lodge now celebrating its sixth anniversary has steadily maintained its growth and social rank year by year. The first noble grand was Mrs. Mildred Bush who later became district deputy. Mrs. Lena Burgher is the present noble grand.

Mrs. Leah Van Benschoten has returned to her home at Hemlock Knoll, Shokan, after spending two weeks with her niece, Mrs. Vernon Burr and family, in Warwick. Mrs. Van Benschoten reports the dry weather condition in that famed section is serious.

The hillside pastures despite the dry weather, are putting on a picturesque display with the annual varied hues of bloom of mountain laurels. Perhaps one of the most profusely flowering patches to be seen about the locality is on the farm of Mrs. Sarah Dwyer, at West Shokan Heights.

The West Shokan school will close Friday after a highly successful year under Mrs. Ruth R. West as teacher. The group will hold a picnic party at Forsyth Park, Kingston. Regents examinations will be held next week at Ashokan. Pupils from the local school scheduled to take the tests include Walter Miller, Mildred Roe, Alicia Hendricksen, Donald Smith and Catherine Willson.

U. S. Prints Tons Of Paper To Pay Soldiers' Bonus

Washington (AP).—Preparations to pay 3,500,000 World War veterans bonus bonds totaling $1,924,000,000 beginning June 15, presented the federal bureau of engraving and printing with a stupendous job.

One hundred and twenty-five tons of paper were required for printing. The same process used in the printing of currency was employed.

The bonds are printed in black on white paper with a greenish tint and are featured by an engraving of Andrew Jackson.

Printing was the greatest rush job the federal bureau of engraving and printing has had in its history.

The first bond was printed on February 28, 1936, by Robert V. Montgomery, a veteran, employed at the bureau.

A total of 25 presses, working at full speed beginning February 26, were needed to have the bonds ready for delivery.
